Port-A-Bell®

After thirty years of experience carrying heavy wooden bell cases, bell player and director Thomas Smith became resolved to put an end to bicep building and backbreaking labor. Mr. Smith observed that regular bell cases either weighed too much, weren't balanced in weight distribution, or weren't very portable. So, he pondered and drew and consulted and measured, until . . .

. . . the innovative result:

PORT-A-Bell® Cases!

Typical wooden cases sold with most bells can't withstand the rigors of travel. Port-a-Bell® cases, however, are made of heavy-duty polyethylene that insures they are lighter weight and more portable than your current cases.

Cases like this have carried sensitive military equipment and delicate photographic equipment for years . . . you know your bells deserve to be protected this well.

Whether you are traveling across the hall or across the country, you'll find Port-a-Bell® to be a better case. The ease at which they travel adds comfort to the bell experience.
